SECRETARY OF LABOR,

Complainant,

v.

OSHRC Docket No. 94-1973

RICHARD A. PULASKI : CONSTRUCTION COMPANY, INC., :

Respondent.

ORDER

On April 14, 1995, Administrative Law Judge Richard DeBenedetto issued a "Default Order" dismissing the notice of contest filed by Richard A. Pulaski Construction Company, Inc., for failure "to comply with the deadline for arranging a telephone prehearing conference, as directed by the order entered on April 11, 1995." The April 11 Order directed each party "to contact the office of the undersigned no later than 3:00 p.m., on Friday, April 14, 1995, to arrange for a prehearing telephone conference" Our review of the official file reveals, however, that very early in the proceedings, on July 15, 1994, Pulaski filed a prehearing statement listing a witness it wanted to call and that immediately after the judge's April 11 order, on April 12, 1995, Pulaski contacted the Commission's Boston office in an attempt to arrange a prehearing conference. Inasmuch as a conference call involving both parties could not be accomplished on April 12, the parties agreed that they would telephone the judge on the next day between 10:00 and 11:00 a.m. According to Judge DeBenedetto, Pulaski "failed to contact this office at any time since the April 12 communication." Pulaski states in his letter requesting relief, however, that he "did not understand the date of the call to be Thursday, 4-13-95," and that when he called on Friday,

1995 OSHRC No. 38

April 14, "the [message] tape came on" and he interpreted this to mean that the office was closed because it was "a holiday [Good Friday]."

Under Commission Rule 41(a), 29 C.F.R. § 2200.41(a), before a judge may declare a party in default for failure to plead or otherwise proceed under the Commission's rules, the judge must ensure that the party was "afforded an opportunity to show cause why he should not be declared to be in default." We find nothing in the official file to indicate that Pulaski was given this opportunity. We also find that Pulaski's actions constitute sufficient reason for excusing the failure to meet the judge's deadline, particularly where there is no indication that the judge attempted to phone Pulaski on April 13 or any time prior to issuing a "Default Order" on April 14. We therefore set aside the judge's "Default Order" and remand the case for further proceedings consistent with the Commission's procedural rules.

Docket No. 94-1973

v.

RICHARD A. PULASKI CONSTRUCTION CO., INC.,

Respondent.

DEFAULT ORDER

On April 11, 1995, an order was entered and faxed to the parties directing each of them to contact this office to arrange a prehearing telephone conference. Each party telephoned this office on April 12 but because of the unavailability of one party or the other at the same time, a conference call with both parties could not be accomplished on April 12. It was therefore arranged and each party agreed to telephone the office of the undersigned on the following day, April 13 during the hour from 10:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. so that the telephone conference could be effectuated.

In accordance with the agreement, the Secretary contacted this office on several occasions during the morning on April 13 but respondent has failed to contact this office at any time since the April 12 communication. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that having failed to comply with the April 14 deadline for arranging a prehearing telephone conference, as directed by the order entered on April 11, 1995, respondent's notice of contest is dismissed. It is further ORDERED that the June 2, 1994, contested citation is affirmed and a total penalty of $975 is assessed.

RICHARD DeBENEDETTO

Judge, OSHRC
